In accordance with the faculty department rules of the University of Zurich regarding graduation, doctoral candidates have the possibility of submitting their PhD thesis in electronic format:

Candidates are expected to prepare the E-PhD thesis independently. Assistance is provided by the institutes and faculty departments, as well as the IT services of the University of Zurich. Candidates are responsible for copyright clearance in connection with the publication of their PhD thesis and are obliged to sign a declaration of consent. The Zentralbibliothek Zürich does not put interactive or multimedia PhD theses online.

The submission of an E-PhD thesis requires a PDF/A-File (by e-mail to Hochschulschriften.UZH@zb.uzh.ch or date storage media) along with two printed mandatory copies (Faculty of Law three printed copies):

- The print copies shall contain the entire text including any illustrations
- Files format: PDF/A \(Portable Document Format for digital archiving and long-term preservation\)
- Page size A4 format (210 x 297 mm)
- Links are to be formatted as highlighted URLs that are discernable as such in the print version
- Choose a reasonable resolution for all graphics within the text. 300 dpi is enough
- Reduce coloured graphics to 256 colours to minimize file size
- Unlimited access to all files must be assured

Submitting monographic PhD theses

Submitting cumulative PhD theses (collected PhD theses)

- 1 PDF/A-document (diss.pdf) containing all parts of the PhD thesis

Articles published elsewhere can be blocked for one year. In such case, the articles to be blocked must be taken out of the diss.pdf and saved as separate PDF/A-documents (article1.pdf, article2.pdf etc.) The print copies must contain the blocked article/s.

Attention: blocked articles must be recorded in the bibliography of the diss.pdf!

Habilitations

For further instructions candidates are kindly asked to refer to the prevailing faculty instructions of the University of Zurich. The submission of a habilitation requires four printed deposit copies. Instructions for printing and binding analogous PhD theses.
